

WARRIOR PRIEST WILL HONOR GRANT.

Father Deshon Has Been Specially Invited to the Dedication.

THE HERO'S CLASSMATE.

Studied with the Great Soldier at West Point and Loved Him Well.

STURDY SCHOOLBOYS TO MARCH.

Thousands Strong, the Children of the American Guard Will Be a Stirring Feature of the Parade.
Chief Conlin Finds Fault.

A priest will be one of the most picturesque figures at the bier of the great soldier.

Room-mate of Grant at West Point and his companion in arms in war; soldier while the land was torn with strife and misery, the Rev. Father Deshon has been deemed worthy to receive a special invitation to be present at the dedication ceremony on April 27.

The sombre garments of the warrior priest will single him out among the wearers of bright uniforms and nodding plumes who will march in honor of the dead. His white tattered head will be bent in mingled sorrow and pride that will be as purely personal as the feelings of any among the tens of thousands to cluster round the tomb of the nation's hero.

For the man who is now renowned as a Paulist preacher loved his friend, the man who was to carve with his sword a fame far greater than his own. He was one of the star members of Grant's class in the Military Academy, and the two youths were the closest and most confidential of friends.

Chums at the School.

They were the more drawn to each other because they differed in temperament.
Grant was ever the man of action; Deshon the man of thought. Grant, who early showed his genius for the handling of great bodies of armed men, was assigned to the infantry corps after graduating; Deshon, who knew no rival in the scientific branches of the military curriculum, was commissioned in the engineer corps, whence he was afterward transferred to the ordnance department.

Deshon's career as a priest began when his career as a soldier ended. But whether as soldier or priest he retained the love of the man whom his countrymen had learned to adore.

Father Deshon is full of interesting remembrances of Grant's life at West Point. Whenever sorely troubled by some difficult mathematical problem Grant always sought the assistance of his chum, Deshon, and when the latter could not master a technical military question it was to Grant he went for aid.
Father Deshon joined the Paulist order shortly after resigning from the army. He is now one of the oldest active preachers in the society. He is a persuasive talker, a man of great and varied executive ability, and possesses his own acquaintance with every priest in the United States. He dislikes notoriety, and only love for his dead classmate would induce him to take the conspicuous part in the coming military pageant assigned to him as one of the four living classmates of the dead military champion.

A Thousand Dramas Intertwined.

Thus, like the action of a majestic drama, does the human interest accrue to Grant day by day, more vivid, more acute, from day to day. In itself the sequel to the greatest drama of all—a great fight well fought, a great life well lived—the dedication of Grant's tomb, will involve not only a spectacle of magnificent, but a thousand and one drama intertwined with the central one.

The case of the warrior priest is no isolated one. There will be a thousand and one such stories of individual interest wherein those who assemble from all over the land to pay honor will be associated with the memory of the man whom they honor.

All the Grants will be there. Colonel Fred Grant received a letter from his mother yesterday, in which it was announced that Jesse Grant and his family would join in the demonstration that receives so much lustre on the family. This means that every one of the direct descendants of the great General will mingle in the throng about his mausoleum on the bluff above the Hudson.

Glory for School Boys.

But among the friends, the descendants, the veterans, and all those in high places on that day, none will appeal to the imaginative spectator with quite so much significance as the children. Thousands of American boys, any one of whom may be a potential Grant, will march shoulder to shoulder in orderly battalions—shoulders back, eyes front, weapons shining, hearts kindling with pride.

They are called the American Guard and they will be commanded by Captain Za-linski, U. S. A., retired. Cadet corps fully uniformed and equipped form the American Guard, whose very existence is an inspiration suggested by the career of the man who sleeps in Riverside Park.

Every schoolboy in the country who wears a uniform and carries a musket is planning to march in the great parade. Here are the schools that have already made formal applications for places in the line:

Alliance Cadets, Bloomfield Cadets, of New Jersey; Berkeley School, Baptist Boys' Brigade, Chinese Boy Students, Corcoran Cadet Corps, of Washington; De La Salle Corps of Cadets, Emanuel Cadets, of Brooklyn; Hamilton Institute Cadets, Hebrew Orphan Asylum Cadets, Leo Battalion, of Brooklyn; Grand College Cadets, of Philadelphia; First Battalion New Jersey Cadets and First New Jersey Battalion Boys' Brigade, New Jersey; Military Academy, of Cornwall-on-Hudson; Plainfield (N. J.) High School Cadets, of New Jersey; Rockland Institute, of Syrac; St. Bartholomew's Cadets, St. George's Cadets and St. Francis Xavier Battalion.

Meanwhile Chief Conlin is angry about something. He says he was not consulted about the line of march, and he does not approve of it much, anyway. He talked to General Dodge about it yesterday, and pointed out the flaws he had detected in the proposed route of parade to the monument.

"Why didn't you consult me?" he said pathetically. "I should never have recommended Fifty-ninth street as part of the route. It is narrow, and there are cars in it. I should have recommended Fifty-seventh street instead."

General Dodge assured the Chief that no offense had been intended for a moment.
"Before laying out the route," he continued, "I went over every foot of the ground. I selected Fifty-ninth street for crossing town, because it is a fine thoroughfare, flanked by Central Park and as such eminently fitted to be included in a parade of such importance. It is wide enough for our purpose. I assure you. The column will march fourteen men abreast, and Fifty-ninth street can easily accommodate forty feet front. Besides, Chief, I had an understanding with Commissioner Grant by which I was to consult him before asking for a permit."

Chief Conlin still looked ruffled, but it is not believed that he will hold up the Grant parade by refusing to grant a permit.
In response to the invitation extended from Washington to the naval powers of the world, there will be at least one man-o'-war to make the Palisades re-echo on the day Grant's monument is dedicated. Julian Raiph cables from London that Mr. Curzon, Under Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, has informed him that H. M. S.
Talisman has been ordered to the port of New York to represent the English nation on this occasion.

Grant Post, G. A. R., of Brooklyn, has been accorded the right of the Grant Monument parade. Superintendent of Police McKelvey is commander of the post.

CANAL EXCAVATION STOPPED.

Danger of the Retaining Wall at Utica

Caving in Alarms Engineers.

Utica, April 8.—Work has been ordered stopped upon canal excavation in the western part of this city. It is expected that some of the State engineers will be here tomorrow and decide whether it can be continued.

The trouble is upon the berm bank of the canal. Along the bank several large manufactories are located. By digging the canal bottom two feet deeper the berm bank retaining wall frequently caves in, and at several of these places exist in the vicinity in which the steam shovels were working last night. It has been thought best to suspend operations.

RAILROAD WEDS ON A TRAIN.

Ceremony Performed While Travelling at the Rate of Forty Miles an Hour.

Williamsport, Pa., April 8.—General Superintendent A. G. Palmer, of the Beach Creek Railroad, and Miss Mary Baer were married yesterday in the former's private car while it was speeding over the rails at forty miles an hour.

The ceremony was performed between Jersey Shore and Newberry by Rev. P. S.
Kohler, a Presbyterian minister of Jersey Shore. The bride's brother and his wife witnessed the ceremony.
